Not illustrated. 1890 Excerpt: . in rapid array, be soared high, reaching to the top-most metaphors and the most elevated rhetoric that he could command, and carrying his audience with him. Suddenly he touched upon a pathetic strain and in less time that it can be related all who were present were clasping hands and crying like babies. The host and hostess were absolutely paralyzed with grief. Every guest in the room vied with the other in his manifestations of sorrow. Dr. Mathews would not relent, but proceeded in this eloquent strain. Suffice it to say that the company that had gathered together for an occasion of jollity and pleasure broke up like a funeral procession. Drs. Ouchterlony, MeMurtry and Wathen of Louisville are authority for this report. It is only given as an illustration of the power of Kentucky eloquence when it decides to let itself out. Dr. Mathews was elected President of the Mississippi Valley Medical Association at the last annual meeting, in September, 1889, and to say that the next meeting (October 8 to 11, 1890) at Louisville will be a success is putting it mildly. If one-half of the friends of Dr. Mathews in the profession attend, the City of Louisville will not be able to hold them. At the meeting of the American Medical Association just closed, at Nashville, Dr. Mathews was selected to deliver the address on Surgery at Washington in 1890. A more proper selection could not have been made. Doctor Mathews, being...
