Not illustrated. 1868 Excerpt: .the Abbe Halluin, and by the same Mission of St. Vincent-de-Paul, an orphanage for 200 apprentices has been established. In this house the apprentices at work during the day in different workshops of the town receive board and lodging. The proceeds of their labour go towards defraying the expenses of their maintenance, and the rest is made up by voluntary contributions and by grants from the commune and the department. It is in fact a charitable institution; the inmates have regular hours for meals and for sleep as in a boarding school; in other words it is an asylum for apprentices. In conclusion, M. Maignen suggests one or two measures for the improvement of the condition of apprenticeship. He says, -- I must give utterance to my wish that the excellent institution of giving prizes for apprenticeship in the schools should be extended. This is an admirable institution, that you doubtless know; it consists in a competition established between all the schools, and the city of Paris grants 250 francs to those children who have obtained the first places. It is a great encouragement to teaching in the schools. Unhappily the instruction given in the schools is very deficient; there are eight or ten children who are advanced, the others are neglected. What happens? When the children show any talents their parents, through ambition, will not make workmen of them; they urge them to employment in offices or in commerce, so that there are hardly any...
