(8) A stiff wire projecting horizontally from this metal tube above the edge of the Leyden jar, and out through a wide hole in the case of the instrument to a convenient position for applying electricity to charge the jar with. This lecture, as reported in the Proceedings of the Royal Institution, was sent in the following year, with the photographic curves for four successive days, and an accompanying description, to the Philosophical Magazine, but was not inserted; and down to the present time no full description of the apparatus has been published, the most successful attempt that we have seen being the description of the Electrometers at Kew in the Engineer for August 9th of the present year. (9) A very light glass mirror, about three-quarters of an inch in diameter, attached by its back to the wire (4), and therefore rigidly...
